Executive Summary

On January 21, 2016, Digitech Inc. was called in to assist the National Gallery, Washington D.C. (NGDC) case involving the conspiracy associated with the theft of valuable stamps and defacing of museums are at the NGDC.

- Tracy is a suspect in the aforementioned conspiracy.
- As part of the investigation, Tracy's iPhone was taken into custody.
- Digitech, Inc. was tasked with investigating evidence relevant to the aforementioned conspiracy.

As described fully in the report, Digitech, Inc. made the following findings.

After a thorough review of the evidence, it was found that Tracy (aka Coral) colluded with her brother Pat (aka Perry) to steal stamps from the National Gallery of Art in Washington D.C. Tracy is struggling financially and is unable to afford her daughter Terry's school anymore. She has asked her ex-husband if he could help cover the cost but he is unwilling since Tracy does not let Terry live with him. This financial hardship is what motivated Tracy to begin working with her brother Pat to make some extra money. Pat is a crooked police officer and has blackmailed a thief named King to help them with the heist. While they are scheming, Tracy's acquaintance Carry has contacted her for help. Carry has recognized that Tracy is having a hard time and in return for Tracy's help to gain entrance to the National Gallery, she is going to pay Tracy for her help. She needs Tracy's help to get her tablet into the National Gallery where she is planning a flash mob which will help her deface some artwork.

Equipment and Tools

I utilized a Kali machine to launch Autopsy where Tracy's phone was examined. Certain files needed to be opened using sqlitebrowser to analyze the data. Outside of the VM, I used Google Maps to plug in the coordinates from the evidence to plot out wifi and cell locations. I also used epochconverter (for unix timestamps) and epochconverter (for apple wifi and cell location timestamps) to convert the timestamps to a date and time.

Plot Timeline

June 19, 2012 - Pat emails Tracy and tells her to listen to a song which has details of how to install a virtual machine.

June 21, 2012 - Tracy tells Pat that she has set up the VM

June 28, 2012 - Tracy and Pat agree to start using the VM moving forward. They also tell each other to keep an eye out for opportunities.

June 29, 2012 - Pat tells Tracy that internal affairs has been sniffing around his office and is nervous. Pat tries to mislead anyone looking by telling Tracy that he has been working things out with Coral.

July 2, 2012 - Tracy informs Pat that she thinks she has found an opportunity. She mentions that a lot of money is being spent on a new exhibit, but she is a bit confused because the shipping cost is cheap compared to usual shipments that come in. Tracy also emails her ex-husband Joe asking if he can help her out with paying tuition for Terry's school.

July 3, 2012 - Joe tells Tracy that he is not going to help pay if their daughter Terry is not living with him. Tracy emails Pat with her normal email address letting Pat know that Coral is very excited about her job. Tracy tells Pat that they are getting a rare collection of stamps and thinks this is their "ticket".

July 5, 2012 - Carry emails Tracy saying they havent seen each other in a long time and she knows Tracy has been having a hard time lately. Carry asks Tracy if she wants to get lunch Friday. Tracy texts Carry to meet at Bubba's Grill on Friday.

July 6, 2012 - Tracy emails Carry to tell her thank you for lunch and that they should catch up more. Pat emails Tracy telling her knows someone named King that can help. Pat emails King to blackmail him into helping with the heist. Tracy texts Pat to give her a call because its important. Tracy texts Carry to tell her that she has a table inside.

July 9, 2012 - Tracy emails herself (Coral) the documents containing insurance information on the stamps. Carry emails Tracy asking if she can help her get her tablet into the National Gallery. She tells her that she can make it worth her while and she mentions the flash mob.

July 10, 2012 - Tracy emails Carry to tell her that she can help get the tablet in and they set a time to meet outside the National Gallery at 9 the next morning. King emails Pat back and tells him that he will help, but he needs some tools to get it done. He sends Pat a list of the tools. Pat forwards the email to Tracy. Pat texts Tracy that her "friend" Coral needs to email the attachments after they have been changed to PDF.

July 11, 2012 - Carry emails Tracy asking if she can send her information on the shift changes of the security guards and if she helps, she can pay her for the information. I could not find the timestamp of Tracy's email back to Carry, but i believe it was also on this day where Tracy tells Carry that she can send the info and that she could really use the cash. Carry texts Tracy just before 9 to let her know shes almost there and asks where to meet. Tracy tells her to just meet her out front and she'll take the tablet in.

July 12, 2012 - Tracy texts Carry to ask how the flash mob is going.

Conclusion

Evidence found on Tracy's iPhone indicated the following:

Tracy (aka Coral) and her brother Pat (aka Perry) are both struggling financially, which is the reason this all starts. They start communicating through a VM to keep their conversations more discreet and tell each other that they will keep an eye out for opportunities to make money. Tracy's job at the National Gallery of Art gives her access to information on exhibits and the insurance that covers the items (see below). Once she gets information that this new exhibit of stamps is coming, she tells Pat and they start figuring out how they can pull this off. Because Pat is a police officer, he has connections with some shady characters, and he ends up contacting King and blackmails him into cooperating with them to pull off the heist. King agrees and tells them that they will need to supply him with some materials (see below). While they are colluding, Carry, an acquaintance of Tracy, reaches out to her and wants to meet. She asks Tracy if she can get her access to the National Gallery to set up a flash mob which will be used to deface artwork. She understands that Tracy has financial issues and tells her that she will pay for her help. This evidence can be found in the SMS messages, emails and wifi and cell locations listed below in the appendix. The list of materials King requests and the insurance documents on the stamps are listed below the appendix as well.
